Join Courtney France on June 24th from 11:30-1:30 p.m. at AGC for details on the changes to LEED 2009.

The 2009 LEED System has drastically changed. The USGBC has implemented changes in BOTH the way building performance is evaluated and how accredited professionals are measured. Courtney France will present "Examining the LEED 2009 Changes for Companies and Individuals" at the AGC's LEED Lunch and Learn on June 24. Courtney will review how the LEED rating system and professional accreditation program has changed with the LEED 2009.

The program will focus on the USGBC's certification and accreditation arm, Green Building Certification Institute (GBCI) and the broad changes it has instituted. Learn how the new credentialing system affects your company, existing LEED APs and those interested in pursuing professional accreditation in the future.

The single LEED AP designation will be replaced with a new three category tiered system - LEED Green Associate, LEED AP+, and LEED Fellow. It is no longer just a matter of studying and signing up for the professional exam, but rather first qualifying to register for the exam. Gain a much better understanding of the changes and their timelines and clarification of the expectations and process.
